

Cow town! Welcome to Calgary
Script

Though Calgary Script was initially inspired by the brush script on a "Welcome to Calgary" sign, after it was finished I realized its letterforms were inspired by the many books on American sign painting I have absorbed over the years. To me, it conveys the feel of the '50s as seen through the eyes of the '80s -- it's the Fonzy of scripts, with a leather jacket and big hair. The head-heavy capitals and free-flowing lowercase lean unstoppably and speedily forward like a buffalo herd. Calgary Script is an energetic display face for packaging, with a true supermarket-sign spin. OpenType features include ligatures, alternates, and ordinals specifically designed to follow numerals.
